The European Bank of Reconstruction and Development (EBRD) is participating in the Italy-Georgia Forum on 8 March in Rome, Italy. (<http://www.ebrd.com/who-we-are/structure-and-management/shareholders/italy.html>) The event is being held within the framework of the Official Visit to Italy by the delegation of the Georgian Government headed by the Prime Minister Mr Kvirikashvil. The event will aim to promote Georgia (<http://www.ebrd.com/georgia.html>) as a destination for investment/business and it will bring together large, medium and small companies from Georgia and Italy to facilitate business cooperation between the countries.

Delegates will have a unique chance to learn about the investment climate in Georgia as well as listening to eminent speakers from both the public and private sector during the thematic panel discussions on manufacturing; infrastructure; tourism and hospitality and real estate and to exchange ideas with potential institutional and private investors by sharing experiences on the use of modern business structures, to expand a network of international partners as well as communicating with colleagues during the formal and informal parts of the event.

The European Bank for Reconstruction and Development will be represented by Bruno Balvanera, Director for Caucasus, Moldova and Belarus, EBRD.

Among the confirmed speakers are: Giorgi Kvirikashvili, Prime Minister of Georgia; Angelino Alfano, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Italy; Zurab Pichkhaia, CFO, Anaklia Development Consortium and many others.
